Will The Real Terrorists Please Stand Up (2011, 82 minutes) is the latest of Saul Landau's documentaries about Cuba. This one examines the case of the 'Cuban Five', intelligence agents sent to penetrate violent Cuban exile groups in Miami, who have been serving long prison sentences in the US. Archival footage as well as extensive interviews including both Cuban state security officials and Miami exiles provides an in-depth look at Miami-Washington-Havana politics in an attempt to explain the continued hostility of US administrations towards the island. The October 27th screening will be the first in the NYC Metro area. Sponsored by the Latin America Committee of Brooklyn For Peace.
